

Chaplaincy Everywhere - 'Caught Up in the Mission of God'

Are you interested in Chaplaincy amongst people in Croydon town centre?

Chaplaincy is about being available to others in the places they gather.

You will often find chaplains at the heart of communities and often on the edges too.

Chaplaincy is rooted in real life; being present to others in good times and bad times, bringing love, hope, understanding and peace.

Chaplaincy is about getting on people's level and walking alongside them for a short while or over many years.

Workplace Chaplaincy is about having a pastoral heart, giving time to visit people in their places of work to offer care, comfort and a confidential listening ear.

Chaplaincy isn't about recruiting for church membership.

If you sense a call to this type of mission and could spare a few hours each week during the day, then you could be a volunteer Chaplain. Training and support will be provided.
